The Artist

- ▶ Nancy Peasé Brammer began her artistic life at eight when she started to play clarinet and studied art with artist Lucia Comins, a Connecticut painter and teacher.
- ▶ She continued both artistic studies through high school and college, taking art classes both in school and classes taught by area artists. She's painted in oils, watercolor and acrylics. From 1988-2002, Nancy was a graphic artist for the Encore Society of Music in Traverse City, MI where she was employed as music director and executive director for the 50 piece wind orchestra.
- ▶ As part of her visual artistic duties for the concert season, she designed advertising promotional materials and ads for the programs. She painted watercolors and illustrated pen and ink drawings of area historical buildings, all in connection with Encore's many concerts designed to bring together the visual and the aural arts.
- ▶ Upon retirement from Encore in 2002, Nancy and her husband moved to Lancaster, PA where she now continues to perform on oboe, English Horn and bassoon professionally and pursue her visual artistic goals by participating in area shows. Nancy is also a stock photographer with portfolios on four stock sites, Istock, Shutterstock, Dreamstime and Fotolia.

The Process

- ▶ All portraits start with a photo. The photo is imported to the computer where it is sized for the final portrait design. The photo is transferred into an advanced painting program and painted with artistic digital tools, that mimic real paint brushes and other painting tools and styles. Use of a pressure sensitive tablet allows the artist to apply the brushes much as one would real brushes and paint. An exciting medium, the digital painting allows the artist to create effects and textures not available with real paint and canvas.
- ▶ When the proof is approved, it is printed on acid free, cold press watercolor paper by a larger format, high resolution printer using top quality inks with a life of up to sixty years. The painting is then sprayed with an art UV spray to protect it from UV rays. Of course, no painting should be hung in direct sun and the painting should be protected under glass. All material inside the frame need to be acid free.
- ▶ Your painting proof and invoice are emailed to you for approval. Upon receiving a confirmation and payment, your portrait is shipped in packing that will protect it from any bending or moisture. Your portrait will be signed by the artist. Reprints are available at 60% of original cost. Matting is at the original price.
